VOICE AND VOTE IN A HYBRID WORLD: Lessons learned from the first online Student Government Elections at the University of Guyana

This special talk hosted by the University of Guyana with support from the International Republican Institute examines how technology has facilitated agency, civic action and leadership among young people. We offer the case of the University of Guyana’s Student Society elections held last week which, for the first time in its history, was conducted completely online. Join us for this Gyaff as our panel explores lessons learned and ideas for the future.
